ABOUT LILITHFOXX

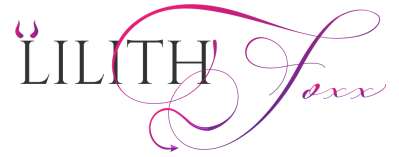

Lilithfoxx (she/her) is a BIPOC, queer, neurodivergent, kinky, and polyamorous marketing professional turned Board-certified sexologist, AASECT Certified Sexuality Educator, professional speaker, coach, and inclusivity consultant. She is a graduate of the Kinsey Institute at Indiana University's Human Sexuality Intensive program, is certified by Johns Hopkins University in psychological first aid, and is currently pursuing a Master's in Public Health. Her work centers the intersection of marginalized identities, disability inclusion, and social justice within alternative sexuality, combining academic training with lived experience to create accessible, affirming education for diverse communities.

Drawing from her own journey with disabilities, chronic pain, and over a decade in the BDSM and nonmonogamy communities, Lilith brings a trauma-informed, culturally competent approach to her work. As a proud former sex worker and lifelong advocate, she creates space for nuanced conversations about consent, pleasure, and power. She teaches workshops and webinars globally on kink, relationships, and sexuality, and regularly consults with clinicians, educators, and researchers to build more inclusive systems of care.

Prior to her career in sexuality education, Lilith led a successful decade in digital marketing as a senior SEO strategist, web developer, and consultant for clients ranging from start-ups to Fortune 500 companies. Today, she combines her marketing expertise with her passion for sex-positivity to support adult industry brands through consulting and strategy. Her insights have been featured in Cosmopolitan, Men's Health, Kinkly, Glamour, HuffPost, Playboy, GQ, and more.
